

Prince's Trust
Northern Ireland

The Princes Trust believe that every young person should have the chance to embrace exciting opportunities. It offers help to 11 to 30 year-olds who are unemployed or struggling at school to transform their lives. Many of the young people it helps are in, or leaving, care, facing issues such as homelessness or mental health issues, or have been in trouble with the law. The organisation has returned £1.4 billion in value to society through our help for disadvantaged young people over the last 10 years alone. Our free programmes give young people the practical and financial support they need to stabilise their lives.
